Commander George D. Price, flight commander aboard the naval aircraft carrier Lexington, was dead here today.

The four-story plunge which caused the death of the beautiful young bride, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beury of Charlestown, West Virginia, was seen by Burton Templeton, who lived across the court from Mrs. Price's apartment.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

A local motorist told Pa Newc this morning that when he takes a trip he fills the tank with New Castle gasoline for nowhere else has he come across gas at any more reasonable prices.

Pa Newc walked into the Associated Charities office this morning and his entrance was rather conspicuous for the season that each step made a loud grating sound. He soon found out it was a "sweet" sound. Some grains of sugar had just been dropped at the entrance.

The Associated Charities office presents quite a different appearance this summer from what it did last winter. During the winter there was a constant line of people in and out asking for food and clothing. The good crops of the summer, the summer out-door work, etc., has remedied this condition and not nearly as many people need the help of charitable organizations.

Atlantic avenue is in a good condition—except for one little place about a yard square. That hole in the cement located near Greenwood cemetery, causes Pa Newc to grit his teeth desperately every time he drives over it. A couple hatfuls of cement would remedy the condition.

This is the final day of Girl Scout camp—the end of a perfect two weeks for the young Misses from New Castle and surounding towns. They are bringing home some heavy coats of tan and some very pleasant memories.

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 24.—An alleged bandit was shot and killed by police machine gunfire, a detective was wounded and two alleged accomplices were caught today as the result of an anonymous tip to police that a robbery was in progress here.

The tip to police came early this morning. An unknown man called police and said: "Burglars are trying to break into the American store at 32nd and Pierce streets."

A police detail rushed to the scene where Melbourne James, 28, was arrested when found in front of the store. Detectives Robert Ashenfelter, 36, and Benjamin Simon ran to the rear of the store.

They were met by a fusilade of shots from within. Ashenfelter crumpled to the ground, badly wounded. Patrolman George Evans, with a machine gun, sprayed the interior of the store. The firing stopped. When police rushed in they found Charles Rettberg, 29, dead on the floor.

His brother, Theodore, 24, later was arrested at his home.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 24.—Best news in a whole bale of Sunday papers was from a senator. (Wouldn't think it, would you?) Senator Jim Couzens offered a million to Detroit's relief fund.

A few examples like that early before the cold sets in will have great effect. Young Insull in Chicago is doing some fine work. That's the best thing about Mr. Hoover's big committee. It's what they will give themselves and get their friends to give that will make them valuable.

Our rich are mighty liberal when the real showdown comes. So thank you, Jim. We will cable your friend, Andy, about this.

Sewickley Divoree Killed By Plunge In New York City

Mrs. Brown Mehard Griffith, 24, Accidentally Falls To Her Death From Hotel

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Brown Mehard Griffith, 24-year-old divorced wife of William J. Griffith Jr., socially prominent aviator of Sewickley, Pa., was accidentally killed investigators said today, when she fell from the fourth floor of a New York hotel yesterday.

Police said Mrs. Griffith evidently tripped in front of a low window and plunged to her death down an airshaft where her body was found.

With James Falvin, a vaudeville actor of Portland, Me., who said he was engaged to marry Mrs. Griffith, the woman had motored here from Portland on Saturday to meet her mother, Mrs. Churchill Mehard, prominent socially in Pittsburgh. They were accompanied by Edward Wade of Portland and another woman, whose name police did not reveal.

Mrs. Mehard, who has been in Europe, collapsed when told of her daughter's death.

Hunt Fire Bug In Texas Town; Six Fires Set

Suspicion Aroused That Fire Bug Plans To Set Fire To Oil Properties

STATE TROOPERS SENT TO KILGORE

"Demonstration" Against Oil Field Shutdown, Is Opinion Of Officials

(International News Service)

KILGORE, Tex. Aug. 24.—Suspicion that a fire-bug plans to set a torch to valuable oil properties as a "demonstration" against the oil field shutdown being enforced by military rule in east Texas resulted today in additional troops being posted in and around this city.

Six incendiary fires in seven hours yesterday plunged this little town into a state of confusion and led authorities to believe an effort was being made to distract their attention so oil wells or storage tanks near the town could be fired.

The first fires, breaking out at almost the same moment, leveled the only two churches in Kilgore. The other fires followed in quick succession.

In each instance gasoline-soaked rags were found at the scene of the blaze.

He was immediately removed to the New Castle hospital by several residents who saw the accident. An X-ray picture was taken to determine the nature of his injuries. At first it was believed to be serious but following the X-ray photo it was discovered that Mr. Colella sustained bruises about his left side.

CHICAGO MAN IS HELD FOR RANSOM

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—John J. "Jack" Lynch, sportsman and publisher of racing information, today was held by kidnapers who demand a ransom of $250,000 under threat of death if the money is not paid today or tomorrow.

Reports that the daily racing form, turf newspaper, would offer a $25,000 reward for information leading to Lynch's safe return were denied by George Matthies, secretary of the publishing company. He said Lynch was not connected with the daily racing form and he knew of no plan for such a reward offer.

Scores of motorists, including many from New Castle and vicintiy, witnessed the fatal automobile-motorcycle accident on the Youngstown road on the other side of Coitsville, Sunday afternoon, when the motorcycle driver was killed after his machine was struck by a car.

The motorcycle driver was C. L. Buchanan, 55, of New Kensington, Pa. The driver of the automobile was John Loczi, 19, of Oberlin . The adventurers encountered terrific snow and sleet storms in the polar region, the messages said.

TOKYO PREPARES TO WELCOME LINDBERGHS

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Aug. 24.—With the Lindberghs only a few hundred miles away from the capital of the flowery kingdom and the suspense caused by their dangerous misadventures over the Kuriles, relieved by their safe arrival at Nemuro, excitement ran high in Tokyo today.

They landed at Nemuro at 7:51 a. m. today (5:37 p. m. Sunday E. D. T.) after a fifty mile flight from Lake Annoro, Kunasiri Island. They left the lake, where they had made their fourth forced landing since their departure from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, last Wednesday, at 7:21 a. m. (5:07 p. m. Sunday E. D. T.)

The little city of Nemuro, which has been waiting eagerly to greet the famous colonel and his wife since they took off from Kamchatka finally touched off its celebration too soon. Members of the crew of a boat in the harbor, hearing the whirr of airplane motors approaching, thought it was the Lindbergh plane, and gave a whistle blast.

Mayor Ando of Nemuro and his councilmen hurried with the population of Nemuro and many outsiders to the waterfront and set fire to the beacons to guide the Americans through the haze.

The arriving plane turned out to be that of a Tokyo newspaper. At the time Colonel Lindbergh was flying blindly over Kunashiri Island trying to find a place to land. Trapped again by a Kurile "pea-souper" fog.

Federal Authorities To Join New York In 'Drive' On Gangsters

Recent Police-Gangster Street Battle Brings Plan To Get Gangsters

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. — While Federal authorities prepared to join New York police today in a new drive against gangsters, one man was dead and two others dying after being lined up and riddled with bullets, apparently from machine guns.

New York's latest gangster outbreak, police said, was a miniature St. Valentine's Day execution. Like the gunmen in Chicago in 1929, who placed seven rivals against a wall and killed them, the three victims here were executed with the precision of a firing squad.

Western Pennsylvania Leads In Casualties Over Week End

OVER HALF HUNDRED INJURED IN STATE

(International News Service)

With highways jammed as the result of crisp, autumnal weather over the week-end, at least seven persons were killed and 53 injured in a series of automobile crashes throughout the state, a checkup by International News Service revealed today.

A feature of the week-end period was the fact that the densely populated Philadelphia area reported only 21 injured and not one automobile fatality.

In contrast, Western Pennsylvania reported five killed and 19 injured while Harrisburg reported two fatalities and injuries to 13 persons as the result of traffic crashes.

U. S. Navy Will Keep Americans In Flooded Area Supplied With Food

RELIEF MEASURES SORELY NEEDED

Thousands Of Refugees In China Are In Desperate Straits, Is Report

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—Americans in the flooded areas of China will not suffer from lack of food while the United States navy is on hand.

This was the reassuring message delivered to American consular officials here today by Rear Admiral Williams, in charge of fleet operations on the Yangtse river. No American, he declared, will go hungry while the navy is on the Yangtse.

Naval officials are cooperating to the fullest possible extent with the flood commission appointed by President Chiang-Kai-Shek. The U. S. S. Mayor Requests Police Eligibles

Several Police Officers Off Duty On Account Of Illness, Vacation

When council met in the city building today Mayor Gillespie requested Councilman Reeves to offer a motion instructing the civil service commission for police to present a list of eligibles owing to several vacancies in the department. The motion carried.

Councilman Genkinger, in reply to the mayor's request to Mr. Reeves, declared: "Why not let this go for awhile unless you absolutely need them."

The mayor said the departmental quota is short to which Genkinger replied: "If you want to save money now is the time."

The mayor said he had only 44 men and about five or six are off duty owing to vacations and illness.

Councilman Burns remarked: "We can think about it. I'll second the motion" and it was adopted.

Mayor Gillespie said he would try to have the department operate with one less than the quota.

MacDonald And Cabinet Resign; Seek New Cabinet

Coalition Government Being Formed By Premier At King's Request

FINANCIAL CRISIS ENDS LABOR MINISTRY

New Cabinet To Comprise Laborites; Conservatives And Liberals

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 24.—A national coalition government, embracing Laborites, Conservatives and Liberals, was being formed by J. Ramsay MacDonald this afternoon to succeed his Labor ministry, which came to a dramatic end because of its inability to agree upon means of solving Britain's financial crisis.

Several hours after the labor premier submitted his resignation and that of his cabinet to King George, MacDonald was still the titular premier, striving to gather together the scattered remnants of his own party and line up Conservative and Liberal leaders into a coalition government.

Making Progress.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon (10 a. m. E. D. T.), MacDonald apparently had made substantial progress in his efforts to form a coalition. He had won the support of Stanley Baldwin, former Conservative prime minister, and it was understood that Sir Herbert Samuel had agreed to enter the cabinet also. Sir Herbert is a leading member of the Liberal party, whose chieftain, David Lloyd George, flatly refused to participate in a government containing his arch-enemy, Stanley Baldwin.

In addition, MacDonald had persuaded J. H. Thomas, Laborite min-

Relief Plans Being Started

Hoover's Plan To Aid Unemployed Is Getting Under Way

TESTS GENEROSITY OF PEOPLE OF U. S.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—President Hoover's plan for relieving unemployment distress next winter through local agencies got under way today as his newly created national relief organization prepared to open headquarters in the capital.

The president's plan for feeding, clothing and sheltering the unemployed will "test the generosity of the American people as never before in history," as one of his spokesmen explained. The national organization, under Walter S. Gifford, New York business executive, will merely serve to spur on and coordinate local relief movements.

Coal Operators Remain Silent

Labor Leaders Favor Suggestion Of President Of Carnegie Coal Co.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—While a majority of the bituminous coal operators maintained a noncommittal attitude, labor leaders in the industry today indicated a favorable reaction to the suggestion of J. T. M. Stoneroad, president of the Carnegie Coal company, that Gov. Gifford Pinchot call a conference with the governors of Ohio and West Virginia seeking a limitation of production.

Labor representatives, however expressed the belief that the use of police power to curb the topheavy bituminous output, a step similar to that taken in the oil fields of Texas and Oklahoma, would not be necessary.

P. T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, said:

"Anything that will cut down production within reasonable limits and stabilize prices will be valuable Over-production is one of the most serious problems in the coal fields."

ed the trio down. One was killed instantly and the others so badly wounded it was said they could not live.

Then the five gangsters joined a sixth man at the wheel of a waiting automobile and disappeared.

The two dying men were found crawling 50 yards from the place where they were shot. Police, summoned by a watchman who heard the shots in the lonely Brooklyn section, discovered them, one with five bullet wounds, the other wounded in the abdomen.

Police, trying to explain the new defiance of warring gangsters, said they believed the shooting was the outcome of another beer faction fight. They said they thought the five gangsters had kidnaped their rivals, rushed them to the deserted Brooklyn section, and shot them.

Shooting Is Witnessed

John Schumaker, the nightwatchman who called police, claimed to have witnessed the last few minutes of the execution and the escape of the killers.

The slain man, shot twice through the head, was identified as Anthony Ferrara, 22, an ex-convict. The wounded men were Murray Leonardi, 21, on parole from Elmira Reformatory where Ferrara had served, and Angelo Curauni, 20.

The shootings came as city and Federal authorities were to meet to discuss a new fight against gangsters and gunmen, following Friday's street battle between police and two bandits in which six persons were killed and 12 injured. One of the victims was a three-year-old girl.

The government agents, sent here on President Hoover's orders, were scheduled to confer with officials of the police department to discuss means of fighting the menace of gangland.

Another conference was slated today between acting Mayor McKee and Police Commissioner Mulrooney. Methods of improving police protection will be mapped.

A mass meeting of citizens interested in ridding New York of racketteers, gangsters and gunmen will be held tonight in Central Park.

neighbor's children to participate Mary would stage impromptu reviews. In grammar and high school amateur theatricals affarded her an opportunity to improve her technique to such an extent that she was offered a part in a local stock company in 1927.

Along with the glamor of the footlights came romance. It was in the theatre that she met Pierre Dale, a dancing instructor, who in private life was named von Reissner. They married in Findlay, O., the same year. Mary gave up her acting to assist him in teaching dancing at his school. The lure of the stage was strong again and she became a featured entertainer in a Birmingham night club. From there she progressed to musical comedies.

She was known on the stage as Mary Dale.

Divorced in 1930

As Mary's stage career flourished her marital venture grew less happy. In 1930, she divorced von Reissner, charging violence, and was awarded the custody of their son, Pierre Jr. Since her divorce she has been on tour with a "Flying High" company.

Those on board the Belgenland on its recent cruise, knew her as the tutor of Fujimura's seven year old daughter. The little girl also was on the cruise.

The investigation brings rumors of the importer's jealousy of her interest in other men on board, and a violent quarrel just before he disappeared.

Mary Lawley von Reissner now finds herself one of the featured players in a mystery play which rivals in gripping intensity any of the melodramas, which, she, as a child, used to produce in Birmingham attics and barns.

It is only a short time now until most of Lawrence county's township school buildings are transformed into activity centers again.

Soturday night traffic jams downtown reached their peak last Saturday night in the South Mill-East Washington street section. For a moment the heavy stream of cars were knotted tightly together, but trick maneuvering on the part of several drivers finally unwound the mess. Pedestrains watched from the sidewalk as the trying puzzle was solved.

Speeding seems on the increase here, or at least on certain thoroughfares, Pa Newc happened by when two racing machines came near crashing at a Highland avenue intersection last night.

The swan song of camping is being sung by many of New Castle's camper folk although some there are who will remain at their neighboring cottages or camps for some time yet. With the return of the chilly night air they trek back to their city homes. But one camper told Pa Newc he would remain at his cottage until late in September for he predicts it'll be a warm month.

Quiet New Wilmington anxiously awaits the return of its college populace within a few weeks. Indications point to a greater number of freshman newcomers this fall than ever before.

Thursday will be the first day for voters in New Castle to register. It is the first of three registration days this fall, preparatory to the election. Every man or woman in the city who is eligible to enroll must register on one of the three dates, to be able to vote this fall. Previous registrations are of no avail.

While the corn borer and Japanese beetle quarantine inspection stations are not found in this immediate area at the present time there are a large number of them on the roads in this state, and adjoining states, one will find if an auto trip is attempted. The federal department of agriculture is making an aggressive campaign against the spread of these two agricultural pests.

Just a year ago Saturday, the drouth which had gripped the district was broken, with a fall of rain which totalled almost three-quarters of an inch. Rain fell on four successive days after that period, bringing great relief to parched vegetation.

Travelling over the roads of Eastern United States, one is impressed with the way the gigantic trucks with their trailers have taken over the highways. Many of the huge trucks now tote along a heavy trailer and in many instances these trucks and trailers are a big handicap to passenger auto traffic.

Pa Newc noted rather an ignominious experience for an auto racer last night. He was driving his racing car on the Youngstown road but it was being hauled by another car attached in front, evidently being out of commission.

Many surrounding communities are following in the footsteps of New Castle, where garden and canning projects have been carried out under the auspices of the local charitable organizations and the Garden club. Up in Sharon, volunteer women workers have been canning fruits and vegetables donated by citizens and farmers. Those who have surpluses here, might do well to can them for the winter, when they can be given to families that are deserving.

Still, a merchant must get tired of saying: "No, I haven't got it: can't afford to stock up in times like these."

window to see a bottle of liquor come flying through the window, followed by a chair.

He heard a woman's scream crying:

"Help—Please—Don't."

Then he saw the woman's body come hurtling through the shattered window to plunge to the pavement, four stories below.

Rushing to the courtyard Templeton bent over the crushed form.

"Why did you jump," he asked.

"I didn't, I was thrown," the woman gasped.

Woman Takes Blame

A few hours later Mrs. Price died at St. Joseph's hospital after telling Asssitant District Attorney Walter Schiller in a dying statement:

"It was all my fault."

Price declared that the party had been organized at his instigation, but that he had been unable to attend due to a last minute change in watches aboard the ship.

He told police that he believed his wife had plunged to her death while defending herself against unwelcome advances of one of her guests who had secreted himself in the apartment until the others had left.

This theory was borne out, according to Inspector Allen McGinn of the homicide squad, by the fact that the woman's back and the back of her legs and arms were cut by the shattered glass remaining in the window frame indicatting she had been shoved out backward.

RELIEF PLANS BEING STARTED

and semi-public agencies, it was learned, to make the president's plan successful. If the local agencies fail to reach this mark or that fund proves insufficient, the administration undoubtedly will be forced into the appropriation of federal funds. Thus far, the administration's plan includes no such provision.

Plan Discussed.

The coordination program was discussed at length by the president at a week-end conference in his Virginia mountain retreat with Gifford and Frex Croxton, who headed the president's unemployment commission last winter. They were returning from the camp today, with Gifford and Croxton ready to open headquarters in the department of commerce.

The vast amount necessary for relief work next winter was indicated when three cities—New York, Detroit and Philadelphia — reported drives for a total of $50,500,000. Detroit headed the list with a program for $20,500,000, with Senator James Couzens (R) of Michigan offering to contribute $1,000,000 personally if the city could raise $9,000,000 from other sources. New York reported a drive would be made to raise $20,000,000 while the Philadelphia goal was $10,000,000.

The president's new commission meanwhile received telegrams pledging cooperation from Governor Louis L. Emerson of Illinois, Governor William T. Gardner of Maine and Governor J. Winant of New Hampshire. Emerson told of the steps being taken to coordinate relief activities within the state of Illinois. He said relief expenditures would be made exclusively through local organizations in the counties and communities, in line with the president's plan.

MacDONALD AND CABINET RESIGN; SEEK NEW CABINET

ister for the Dominions, and Philip Snowden, chancellor of the Exchequer, to join the national government.

Only 12 to 14 Members.

The new ministry was expected to contain only twelve or fourteen members, instead of the twenty-one who had posts in the now defunct Labor government. Miss Margaret Bondfield, former minister of Labor and the first woman ever to hold a cabinet post in any European country, was definitely out of the new alignment, as was Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson and at least seven other members of the former Labor government.

The cabinet's fall, it was learned by International News Service, was due solely to a 50-cent cut in the unemployment dole, to which Henderson and a number of other cabinet officers and the trade union council flatly refused to agree.

MacDonald Cabinet Resigns.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald tendered the resignation of the Labor cabinet to King George this morning and accepted a mandate to form a National Coalition government.

Premier MacDonald, after passing a sleepless night given over to conferences lasting until the small hours of the morning, went to Buckingham Palace this morning at ten o'clock.

After a two-hour conference with King George he returned to Downing Street where the cabinet was in session. A few minutes later the cabinet disbanded and several ministers coming out of the prime minister's official residence said:

"It is all over. We have resigned."

A few minutes later King George sent for MacDonald and asked him to form a National Coalition government.

Today's events in Whitehall and at Buckingham Palace were the most dramatic since Great Britain's entry into the war in August 1914. They pictured leaders of the British nation dropping pet theories and partizanship to stand behind the bulwark of British credit, till recently considered impregnable as Gibraltar and showed two life-long Socialists abandoning the principles of a lifetime.

INTEMPERANCE

PUBLIC attention has been so long centered on the intemperate use of alcoholic beverages that the word "intemperate" has lost its broad meaning among a great part of the populace. If one were to ask the average person to define the word the definition most frequently given would be "to drink to excess," or something to the same effect.

Compare this popular understanding of the word with its definitions as found in Webster's dictionary:

"Indulging any appetite or passion to excess; immoderate in enjoyment or exertion; ungovernable; immoderate, inordinate; as, intemperate language, zeal, etc."

So it becomes evident that one may be intemperate in many different ways. There are intemperate eaters, intemperate smokers, intemperate workers, intemperate sleepers, intemperate idlers, intemperate spenders, intemperate talkers, intemperate thinkers, intemperate reformers; and finally there may be intemperance in anything.

In an essay on "The Evils of Intemperance" appears the statement:

"The history of mankind has shown that intemperance is the greatest evil which has afflicted the human race. Yet this is the lesson that mankind from age to age and from generation to generation persistently forgets. Spiritual intemperance unlooses the forces of hate, bigotry, oppression, tyranny, and the like, any and all of which have potentialities for evil in civilized communities that may be compared only with the physical intemperance that weakens and destroys barbarous or semi-civilized peoples."

Victory in civilization's war against intemperance in the use of intoxicating liquors will not abolish all intemperance. There are other forms of intemperance equally devastating and intolerable.

THE BELITTLERS

Gordon Selfridge, American owners of a large London department store and the man who introduced the department store idea to Europe, was talking about the five most beautiful things. He put a beautiful woman first. The rest really do not matter. But he was speaking to a class in architecture, so he closed his list with "a beautiful edifice."

Doing what was expected of him, he enunciated the familiar wheeze about American buildings being high and massive but without beauty. Why it is so much better to have low and ugly buildings, as in Europe, rather than high and ugly, as in America, is a question no one has troubled to answer. But Americans have become a bit weary of having their skyscrapers indiscriminately condemned as unbeautiful. Some of them are, of course. But there are towering office and hotel buildings in the United States of architectural loveliness on a par with anything of which Europe can boast in the way of commercial structures.

It is getting to be something of a bore to put up with Europe's airs of superiority architecturally. There seems to be a lot of sour grapes in all this belittling. Why do not both sides confess that their buildings are peculiarly adapted to their own needs and that the European type of building would be as much out of place in New York as the Woolworth building in London?

CREDIT

It is a commonplace of banking that real assets and collateral are not the truee foundations of credit. If they were, business would be cramped and tied, enterprise would be handcuffed and new ability would go begging. For the real basis of business is personal credit; the reputation of the individual, built out of his record, his capacity and character.

On the reputation of a man others will risk far more than a loan or an indorsement. They will pledge their best labors, their hopes and futures and their own heart's desire to join his venture. Men will even dedicate their lives to a high cause for the sake of faith in its leaders. For it is the spirit of a man in which we place our trust, and serve it with loyalty and confidence that no lesser resources can command.

We build for ourselves this balance of credit with our fellows out of daily deposits, large and small. We build it out of fair dealing and sincerity of, kindness and courtesy, of cheerful labor and willing sacrifice for things worth while. It is our greatest asset, and by it we may command what we need of the help and strength of our companions. It has also this spiritual advantage: That it is its own reward and satisfaction and one which we shall carry with us into the supreme adventure of eternity.

Peace is also that interval in which rear admirals and major generals find themselves occupying a new desk suddenly because they released their communiques through the magazines and newspapers.

Now it is stated that medical science has lengthened life 12 to 14 years. Somehow it sounds just like those government reports telling how much more money we have than we had last month.

TO A BARNYARD FOWL A GLORIOUS SUNSET MEANS BED TIME

In the jungles of southern Asia there are lost and forgotten cities, whose crumbling walls are hidden by tangled and poisonous vines.

Wild creatures hunt one another along dark trails that once were streets: crawling things lie in the sun on fallen columns of marble: and monkey's chatter and play in a deserted temple.

In the temple are inscribed tablets of clay and scrolls of papyrus and parchment collected by learned priests, and these preserve the history and the wisdom of a forgotten civilization.

An archaeologist would give ten years of his life for these treasurers, but the monkeys befoul them or hurl them as weapons in mimic warfare.

Witless, chattering, innocent, creatures, they do not understand. Living among sacred things and treasures of incalculable value they have no capacity to realize or appreciate their advantages and opportunities. They are blameless.

It would be unjust to expect more of monkeys.

In our own land a great and wise man employes a secretary—an awed and frightened youth who thinks himself unworthy to polish the great one's shoes. "How fortunate I am" the youth says, "to be near him and serve him."

But within a year he discovers that the great man is human and because he understands the human traits and lacks the capacity to comprehend greatness, familiarity teaches him contempt and he says to himself: "The boss is a queer old guy. I don't see how he'd get by without me."

Impudence? He is as blameless as the monkeys. What do pearls mean to swine?

There are multitudes of people like the American girl who played jazz on the master composer's piano, who feel no respect for sublime and sacred things, but they are not guilty of intentional insolence.

They don't realize what they are doing. They are like the monkeys in the temple.

A diamond that experts now value at millions of dollars was once used by a farmer to scotch his wagon wheel and later given to his children as a plaything.

The proper measure of intelligence is the ability to appreciate things of great value.

Meeting an Old Friend We Were the Same, Liked Each Other Still It Was Good

By MARSHALL MASLIN

In a city, on a crowded sidewalk, I met a man whom I had not seen for all of 15 years..

We had been friends back when we were younger. Many a time we talked the heart of the night away, discovering ourselves in our conversation, putting into words with joyous discovery the thoughts that all young people have—and forget, in after years, that they have ever possessed.

We had said goodby and had promised to write to each other. But we had not done so. He had gone his way and I had gone mine. Our circles had not crossed. He had grown older and so had I. And friendships rarely survive such gaps in time and space and circumstance.

But we stood in the busy street and talked and it was as if we had parted just yesterday. He looked older and I did, too—and we were as old as we looked. But I understood what he was saying and he seemed to know what I was talking about. He was in law. I was far away from courts and briefs, but while people pased we made the discovery that we were still friends. And we knew that though we might not see each other again for another 15 years, we would still be friends. Something in the texture of ourselves, in the way we looked at things, in the things we liked and things that were no concern at all to us made us friends and sweetened existence.

This does not always happen. Too often we meet an old acquaintance and greet him joyously and talk about old times and ask him how he is and what ever become of that other fellow we used to know, and learn, in 15 minutes or less, that all we have in common is remembrance of the past—and you say goodby and he says goodby and some of the glamour of youth is gone and some of the nap has been worn off of life.

But it wasn't like that with this friend I met, and I hope it was not like that with him. For me, at least, it was good encounter and I left him with a feeling of enrichment.

USE YOUR HEAD

Are your actions controlled by your heart or your head?

The heart usually leads to many acts of kindness but it also is likely to misdirect you in the best course for you and others to pursue.

There should be some sentiment in every person but it should not be sentiment alone which sways, or many unwise moves will result.

The mind is an organ of reasoning.

It is much more apt to be sensible and practical in outlining a course of action.

Of course the intelligence and knowledge of the individual helps.

But the mind should have power enough to act as a balance wheel to the emotions.

Emotions need a stabilizing unit.

Often in a desire to be kind the one favored is made less able to direct his or her affairs.

To rob a person of initiative and energy is too bad for these qualities are a necessary part of successful self-management.

The heart can get one into much trouble.

Be kind, charitable, sympathetic and helpful but be just to yourself and the best interests of those with whom you live and associate. Use your head.

SUBJECT TO MORTGAGE

"Who will buy a lot from me,
High and dry and well located,
On a street that's bound to be
In the future populated.
Pdessed by other cash demands,
I'm disposing of my lands.
Who will take this off my hands,
Subject to mortgage?

"Here's another bargain rare.
I've a dandy duplex dwelling
Which I find I now can spare,
At a loss this place I'm selling,
Price and terms are very low,
Cash this year is scarce and so
I'll be glad to let it go,
Subject to mortgage."

Old man Interest takes his dole
And not once his clutch relaxes,
As the six months onward roll,
He's as sure as death and taxes.
Thus when market prices break
Loud the cry all mortals make:
"Who will burdens from us take,
Subject to mortgage?"

Women in Pittsburgh are tearing down the posters of political candidates who have no civic pride. Not a bad idea.

I was going to town recently and observed a man looking his face over with the aid of a small pocket mirror. There was something radically wrong! I watched breathlessly for his next move. He took a small safety razor from his vest pocket and proceeded to remove a hair from his Gibson (?) chin. Then he located his compact in another pocket, and passed a pink powder puff over his manly (?) face. Then the darn fool passed his tongue over his finger tips—just the tips remember, and gently smoothed his plucked brows.

Dear Fred: It rejoices the soul of me that COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE will take the "KICK" out of the philanderings of the Gay Lothario. He used to need to demonstrate a skilled technic to make another man's wife or a good woman weaken.

He felt the exultation of a hard task well done when he had broken down the SALES RESISTANCE of some daughters of Eve and had sold himself to her as a matter of prowess and conquest, and it was a huge tribute to his vanity.

Now, oh boy, she will merely need to sign a receipt, paid in full, for Friend Husband, and HONORABLY walk out with Lothario and let him pay the bills for awhile.

The lawn is a reflector of human character. The home owner who keeps his yard in good shape shows a pride and permanence that has considerable value. Likewise, the owner of city property who lets weeds take the grass and who gives but scant consideration to the appearance of his front yard is likely to deal just as carelessly with his financial affairs. Then, too, there is something about a well-kept lawn that marks a house as a home that is really lived in rather than a mere place of shelter.

Let me assure you there was no offense intended, we have an organization here in New Castle, that recently held a reunion at Cascade Park, these people are very proud to be called "Old Timers". She states that she was expressing her convictions, I too am saying what I think and could not honestly retract a word of it. No I have no intentions of running for public office, I have a fairly successful business and do not need or want a public job so your votes would not help me any, thanks just the same. Yes, I have some knowledge of wash tubs, even then they would be far less sanitary than the white enamel tubs and showers in use today. I wasn't raised among heathens either but I'm not bragging about that. I sincerely hope that those two Old Timers will soon recover from the affects of my letters, as I am looking forward with happy anticipation to the reading of more of their delightful correspondence.

There shines through darkness still a ray

American Flier's Adventure In Japan Seen As Precedent

Advisability Of More Definite Understanding Of International Requirements Is Stressed In Comments On Photographs Taken Abroad.

The plight of the American fliers Pangborn and Herndon in Japan, where they have been fined for photographing Japanese fortifications from the air, has been followed with interest in the American press. Placing full credence in the statements of the pair, opinion here is that their violation of international ethics was unintentional but it is none the less deemed regrettable.

"Gentlemen in airplanes should be careful where and how often they aim their cameras," comments the OAKLAND TRIBUNE, which notes that "after having been the center of attention as participants in a flying attempt to circle the world in record time, the American airmen appear now in somewhat embarrassing roles." The PITTSBURG POST-GAZETTE is inclined to consider "Japan's treatment of Pangborn and Herndon, American aviators who recently abandoned their attempted round-the-world flight," as presenting "a sharp contrast to the festive welcomes accorded gallant adventurers the world over," and this paper avers that "the incident occasions surprise and some indignation in this country. It appears to the average American that the Tokio authorities are making a mountain out of a mole-hill, and maliciously affronting two of our fellow citizens whose worst crime was thoughtlessness," thinks that paper.

On the other hand, the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN says: "Suppose two Japanese airmen were to cross the Pacific in their plane, or being here by courtesy, were to secure a plane and hover over our coast fortifications, and later were to be found in possession of exceptionally good photographs of important items in our scheme of national defense. Would there be any suspicisions of Japanese plotting or any show of racial prejudice against these friends across the Pacific, who, according to diligent propaganda, are accused of being jealous, if not actually in enmity?" Answering its own question, this paper declares that "the chances are that American public opinion would have been mightily stirred and American Government officials would have felt compelled to make quite as much fuss about the incident as is being made in Japan."

"The trouble which has befallan Pangborn and Herndon will put all other aerial travellers on notice that the use of cameras above certain military zones is forbidden, not only in Japan but in most other countries," states the BALTIMORE SUN, which, however, considers that "at the same time it may serve to remind the great public which has no direct contact with military matters or with aerial travel that both the policy of military secrecy and the attempts to invade it are trifling and naive idiocies with which sensible people should have no traffic." It must be acknowledged, according to the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, that "government as a rule take the activities of alien planes very seriously. The airplane is the best vehicle that has been devised for the work of espionage," it states, for "in a quick flight over a fortified area, an aviator can strip a fortress of its secrets and undo the work of millions spent for defense. That is why governments make the photographing of fortified areas a penitentiary offense," it concludes.

Even so, the MINNEAPOLIS STAR considers that "fining Herndon and Pangborn for flying over fortified areas seems a stupid faux pas on the part of the Japanese, to whom the matter of good will with America should overshadow the silly suspicion they were being snied upon. It will create inimical feeling in Japan and may even revive in this country those hoary and half-baked rumors about a Japanese invasion and a 'yellow peril,'" this paper suggests. The OMAHA WORLD-HERALD exclaims, "The silly season should be called off in Tokio," and the ROANOKE TIMES characterizes the incident as "exceedingly unfortunate, particularly so, coming as it does, on the eve of the Lindberghs' flight to Japan on a mission ininternational good will." The ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC agrees that "plaving around the fortifications of another country with a camera invites penalties," and considers that "Pangborn and Herndon have embarrassed their own government somewhat." While it infers that "some of the militant patriots in Japan are doubtless making a greater fuss ove" the incident than is warranted," the LOWELL EVENING LEADER thinks "it is difficult to escape the impression that the two Americans blundered."

Some papers, seeking the animus back of Japan's stern treatment of the fliers, among them the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL, find "the source of this bitterness is in the American immigration laws. The Japanese are a proud people and they regard exclusion acts as gratuitous insults," declares The Sentinel, which believes "it is time that the cause of Japanese enmity be removed. Japanese friendship is highly desirable," it says, "and it can be regained by changing the form though not the sense of the immigration laws. Exclusion acts affront them, but the quota law would not."

Viewing the matter from still another angle, the CHARLESTON EVENING POST says: "The Japanese must be more nervous about the international situation than there has been any reason to believe they might be. Their super-sensitiveness to this visitation of American aviators must have some background of which there has been no knowledge in the United States, unless the diplomatic agencies of the government have taken account of it."

Discussing the need for an international air code, the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR remarks: "The fining of Capt. Frank Hawks by the American customs officials for an illegal landing in this country on a recent flight from Canada, the penalties meted out by the Japanese to Pangborn and Herndon for taking photographs on their projected round-the-world trip, and the protest last year by the British at Bermuda in regard to an unauthorized flight over the island, which resulted in the grounding of the aviator, draw attention to the need for a better understanding of the rules of the air by pilots who essay flights that cross international boundary lines. All of these violations were technical, it is true," continues The Star, "but they were none the less violations which might be taken cognizance of by the authorities in order that established rules of international custom shall not be openly flouted."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MATTER OF CULTURE

Often aweary of the times,
Wistful for perfect things that die,
Saddened with wishing that begrimes
The lovely face of life, I sigh,
And many a consolation try,
Fleeing the Present that disowns
The laurelled Past, and dares decry
The classics on their golden thrones.

I seek old gardens, where soft chimes
Fall from old belfries in the sky,
And gaze on Sidney's moon that climes
With sad steps for the lover's eye,
And dream of chivalries laid by
In chancels dim with sculptured stones;
Then to a lamp-lit book go I,
The classics on their golden thrones.

Ah! then, shut in from modern rhymes,
I reck not that the world's awry,
Yea! I forgive it all its crimes,
Let it go hang as Haman high-
Who cares if it be wet or dry!
With Shakespeare I forget my groans,
And Homer gives my fears the lie,
The classics on their golden thrones.

Envoi

Prince, when you would the blues defy,
Flee "Progress" and her megaphones,
There is a refuge ever high,
The classics on their golden thrones.

WILMINGTON ROAD GAS USERS MAY JOIN PROTEST

Residents of the Wilmington road in Neshannock township who are served by the Union Heat and Light Company, and also the borough of New Wilmington, will be asked to join with the borough of Grove City in the present fight against the Union Heat and Light Company which will be presented to the public service commission within the near future.

The fight against the company is for the removal of the 60-cent service charge which has been on for many years, and before the fight is over may develop into a battle for a reduction of the current rates for gas. Grove City officials have already secured a nationally known engineer who is conducting an investigation of the situation, and when this investigation is finished the fight will go to the public service commission.

The 60-cent service charge is one which has drawn the criticism of the Wilmington road residents and the people of New Wilmington for years.

Recently the residents of Grove City, through the borough officials, decided to get some kind of a decision in the matter and began steps to place the matter before the public service commission. Because the same company serves New Wilmington and comes down the Wilmington road to the city line of New Castle, Grove City officials are of the opinion that Lawrence county people served by the Union Heat and Light Company may want to join in the protest.

The fight against the Union Heat and Light Company will be watched with interest. One of the two principal owners of the company is H. J. Crawford of Emlenton, Pa., who was one of the three observers appointed to the House investigating committee last spring by Governor Gifford Pinchot.

Beamish Will Enforce Law

"Fictitious Names" Act To Be Enforced By State Says Secretary

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24—Every unregistered business place in the state in which the full name of the owner does not appear will be compelled to pay a $5 fee to the state, under plans for a revenue campaign announced here today by Secretary of the commonwealth Richard J. Beamish.

Beamish has declared his intention of enforcing to the letter the "fictitious names" act, dormant on the statute books since it was passed in 1917.

Penalty for violation of the act is a $1000 fine or a year in jail or both at the discretion of the court. The act was passed to prevent concealment of the names of real owners of a business and it is estimated 90 percent of the business places of the state are not registered.

The law, as interpreted by Beamish, who is an attorney, applies to every business. If John Jones conducts a hot dog stand and does not use his full name in connection with the business titles he will be compelled to pay the $6 registration fee, under Beamish's interpretation of the law.

Such names as "Union Garage," "Bon Ton Millinery," or "Blue Pig Caferteria" the secretary of the commonwealth cited as examples of violations of the law if they are not registered.

No arrests will be made for violations of the law, Beamish announced until after October of this year, although it will be revived. No effort has ever been made to enforce the act on any other basis than that of preventing real owners from obviously attempting to conceal the identity of the true operators and owners of a business.

She Thought It Was Love

His handsome face—his winning smile—how they had thrilled her once! But now all she could remember was his inexcusable carelessness about "B.O."

"The man of her dreams," he seemed—out there on the sun-lit beach. But the first time they danced together—romance fled!

A MAN and a maid by the Summer sea. Long lazy hours on the beach together. "It's love!" she told herself and thrilled with happiness . . . Then came the dance—the discovery that almost broke her heart. How could she ever have thought she cared for him—a man who could be guilty of "B.O." (body odor)!

Hot weather no excuse

It was breathlessly hot as they danced together. But that was no excuse in her eyes. The "B.O." offender is never forgiven, no matter what the weather may be.

Take no chances. Carelessness may cost success . . . popularity . . . even love itself. Make Lifebuoy your toilet soap—then you know you're safe from offending even on the hottest, stickiest day.

TWO WAKE FAMILY OF TEN ASLEEP IN BURNING HOUSE

But for the presence of mind of two young men who discovered flames and smoke in the Santangelo home, 1017 Clearview avenue, in the darkness of early Sunday morning, disaster or even tragedy might have befallen a family of ten asleep in the fired building.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Santangelo and their six children, Mike, 19, John, 17, Ben, 14, Margaret, 13, Lillian, 11, Bella, 7, Clara, 6 and Pauline, 4, were saved shortly before 2 a. m. Sunday after Frank DeLillo of Maitland street and Angelo DeCarbo of East Lutton street broke down the front door of the Santangelo frame home and awakened the sleeping family as flames confined to the attic were beginning to make rapid headway.

DeLillo telephoned central fire station after he succeeded with his friend in entering the residence. A short time after firemen arrived someone rang in a box alarm, bringing in all six companies to the scene. Fire in the attic of the home is believed by firemen to have started from a lighted match which may have been left behind when a member of the household had gone up into the attic Saturday night.

Fire officials estimated a loss of $250 in the blaze.

DeLillo and DeCarbo were returning from Cascade Park and were walking on East Lutton street when they smelled smoke. Nearing the Santangelo home they espied flames and smoke through the attic window.

After knocking and finding that the family was asleep they broke down the door. Margaret, asleep on the second floor was the first to be awakened by DeLillo. The young girl roused her parents and started to carry some of the household goods outside when the smoke began to fill her room.

Margaret carried Bella, Clara and Pauline from their room. The house was deserted upon the arrival of the firemen.

Fulfills Promise And Pays Railroad After 39-Year Wait

Unidentified Kansas Citizen Goes To Chambersburg, Pa., And Pays $1.00

(International News Service)

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 24.—His "promise to the Lord" fulfilled an unidentified Kansan was enroute home today, serene in the knowledge that after 39 years he no longer owes the Western Maryland railroad 35 cents.

G. M. Conner, agent for the railroad, today exhibited an anonymous letter with which the writer enclosed $1 for train fare "and interest" on a ticket from Chambersburg to near Hagerstown. The writer said that he misrepresented his son's age to keep from paying full fare 39 years ago. The penitent said that he "promised the Lord that if I ever got to Chambersburg again I would pay that fare."

Touring the east, the man said he passed through Chambersburg enroute to his home in Topeka, Kas., and discharged his obligation.

Mystery of Wealthy Jap Who Vanished in Ocean

Was Hisashi Fujimura Murdered by Secret Enemy? Or, Did He End His Own Life on Joy-Cruise of "Show-Boat"?

The latest mystery to perplex the combined brains of New York police and Federal authorities is the disappearance of Hisashi Fujimura, wealthy Japanese silk importer, from aboard the liner Belgenland during a pleasure cruise from New York to Halifax and back. Mrs. Mary Reisner, known on the stage as Mary Dale, was with the missing man on the boat, presumably as governess to his seven-year-old daughter Toshika, but in reality, she admitted, as his sweetheart. Mrs. Reisner's story to authorities mentions a person whom Fujimura met on board and whom he feared. She also admits a quarrel with the importer in which she was badly bruised. Fujimura's jealousy was the cause of the row, coupled with the fact that Mrs. Reisner was going to a party given by Mildred Harris, former wife of Charlie Chaplin. Investigators hold a theory that some white man, or men, in the party avenged Mrs. Reisner's bruises on the yellow man and threw him overboard. Color is lent to the suicide angle by the disclosure that Fujimura carried $290,000 worth of insurance, part of which he transferred to his wife just before he sailed.

Soviet Government To Conscript Young Men To Build Roads

By KENDALL FOSS
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Aug. 24.—Conscription of every able-bodied peasant between the ages of eighteen and forty-five for six days of road building annually was announced Saturday by the Soviet government.

No pay will be given for these six days and, in addition, the conscripts must provide draught animals and carts for their work.

The nationwide conscription represented a new step in the Soviet Russian plan of development. Through it, the guiding geniuses of the Kremlin hoped to accelerate to a marked degree the development of transportation facilities throughout the U. S. S. R. and open up new mediums of road communication throughout the vast reaches of the country.

The tremendous population of Soviet Russia assures that with every able-bodied man working on the roads 6 days out of every 365, huge battalions of laborers will be engaged with pick and shovel on the nation's highways every day of the year.

The drastic order contained a new blow for the Kulaks, or rich peasants, who were assessed twelve days' work a year instead of the six demanded of the ordinary proletariat.

May Pay Fines

In exceptional cases, the terms of the order stated, men may pay a fine instead of working, this fine being sufficient to cover the costs of hiring substitutes so there may be no let-up whatever in the plan. Those purposely avoiding the road-work without an excuse deemed legitimate by the Kremlin will be subjected to a double fine.

Reaction of the proletariat to the order was being watched with equal interest by government officials and students of the Soviet regime. In some respects, the order is more drastic than any of the previous steps taken by the government with respect to collectivization of farms, for it will demand of many million Russians work of a type alien to that which they are accustomed.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer

Mount Jackson

Editor The News:

As this is an off year in politics and not very much doing except some county and township scraps your correspondent will take advantage of the lull to inquire what has become of the Literary Digest.

The Digest as everyone knows is the bell wether among newspapers and like all the rest of them is owned by the liquor power and is striving to serve the master that owns it. It has never been denied that the repeal of the 18th amendment would restore the old saloon to its firm places. In fact that is the goal that they have set, how to repeal the 18th amendment.

This would legalize the sale of liquor and the question arises where would it be sold and how would the sale be regulated or controlled. The places where liquor was sold might be called a corner drug store as a filling station but it would be a saloon with a big capital or a drunkard factory which is the proper name.

As a matter of fact and probably every 12 year old schoolboy in Pennsylvania knows that for 150 years the people of this country tried to regulate and control the liquor traffic and failed to do it. They tried high licenses, they tried local option and then as a last resort they adopted prohibition. In the good old days of the open saloon as the wets say we have neither the automobile or the improved road now we have both of them.

What would be the condition of things in Lawrence County today if there were open saloons in New Castle, Ellwood City, Enon Valley and all other towns in the county? Drunken men would be driving trucks and cars over our cement and brick paved roads at 50 or 60 miles an hour driving on the wrong side of the road and perhaps trying to drive on both sides at once. Men, women and children would be killed or crippled by the scores and no one would be safe for five minutes driving on any improved road in the county.

The people of this country are becoming awakened to the danger that threaten them and the candidate for office that is counting on the saloon crowd better stand out while the standing out is good. The writer if this article is neither a prophet or the son of a prophet but he will risk this much of a guess that the political party that nominates a wet man for president next year will write a crushing and overwhelming defeat and they will richly deserve what they will get at the hands of the people.

This country is dry and will remain dry and let us hope that Arthur Brisbane and the editor of the Literary Digest and all other wets will not forget to remember. The verdict that will be rendered by the voters of this country one year from next November will be one that will make for righteousness and good government.

S. A. COWDEN.

TO THE CHRISTIAN PEOPLE OF THE U. S. A.

A few days ago the Honorable Mr. Borah, of the Senate of U. S., made a plea that the unusual surplus of wheat now held in store by our government be sold to the starving people of China where now 1,000,000 a month die from lack of the necessities of life and at a rate that China can well afford to buy.

On August 20 the Farm board of United States authorized negotiations with the Nanking government for the purchase of 15,000,000 bushels of the 200,000,000 bushels now held in store by our government. Is it not now hightime for the humane and christian churches and people of our land to join in prayer and earnest supplication in behalf of these and other people in like distress urging those in control of our great surplus to conscientiously heed the urgent call for help of the starving millions?

May it not be that God is trying our nation out at this hour, by giving us a distant view of what starvation means to millions of our own unemployed and unprovided people? Could there be any more noble humane and christian act than for U. S. to divide with our starving neighbor? Why not the churches of our land join in earnest voice beseeching those in control of this matter that they act at once in the interest of humanity.

Just think of 1,000,000 a month dying in China alone. May God help us to act and to do our duty.

Joe Gardner Assaults Man

Attacks Man, Who Is Utter Stranger To Him, On Saturday Evening

Joe Gardner was arrested under rather peculiar circumstances shortly after six o'clock Saturday evening. A. M. Heckathorn, an utter stranger to Gardner was standing on the public square, when a candidate for one of the offices to be filled at the coming primary, handed Heckathorn one of his cards.

Gardner was nearby and grabbed the card from Heckathorn's hand and then tore up the card. Heckathorn started to walk away and Gardner followed him and struck him a blow and knocked him down. His glasses were knocked off and broken.

Officers Allgier and Croswell happened on the scene about that time and arrested both men, but Heckathorn was allowed to go, when it was found that he was in no way to blame. Mayor William H. Gillespie fined Gardner $20 Sunday morning, with the alternative of spending thirty days in jail.

Just as police started across the tracks a long, slow freight train pulled past, and when it had cleared the crossing the bandit had disappeared.

Old Newspapers Are Rare Relics

Three Valuable Copies Which Belonged To The Late Anna A. Deringer

Some interesting relics in the shape of old newspapers belonging to the late Anna A. Deringer, have been brought to The News office

One is a copy of the Coal City Item, published in New Castle, the date of which is May 14, 1858. This was one of the first newspapers published in New Castle. It is a four page sheet, six columns to the page. The editor was J. Sell Jennings, and the office was at the corner of Mill and Washington streets, over what was then George Henderson's store. M. B. Glenn was associate editor.

There is very little local news on the paper, the greater part of it being taken up with stories, congressional proceedings.

Political announcements contain the names of some pioneers as follows: Congress, General Robert B. McComb and Anthony Henderson.

Assembly—J. W. Blanchard, Taylor township; James Dickson, Esq., and Dr. W. J. Randolph, Slippery Rock township.

Sheriff—William G. Warnock, David Emery and David C. Rhodes, the latter of Neshannock township.

Register and Recorder—Robert Boyd, John Hoffman, J. W. Fulkerson, James G. Thompson, William Potter, George V. Boyles.

Another early newspaper was "The Champion". The copy owned by Mrs. Deringer is dated May 7, 1868. Thompson Burton was editor and proprietor. It was published in the Champion building near the Shenango bridge. A first page poem is headed, "The Whiskey-Devouring Irishman."

Another interesting paper is a copy of Frank Leslie's Illustrated newspaper, dated New York, May 13th, 1865. It contains drawings of the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln, escape of Booth after the shooting and killing of Booth. Soldiers are shown drawing the dying murderer from the barn where he had taken refuge on the Garrett farm near Port Royal, Va.

One of the largest pictures, covering two full pages shows Lincoln's funeral cortege, passing up Broadway, N. Y., in the presence of nearly a million spectators. The pictures are all exceedingly well executed.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

When the Erie Extension canal was completed in November 1833 from Beaver to this city, it marked the beginning of bigger and better things for this city in an industrial way. It was also the occasion for keen competition among certain local residents for the honor of launching the first local boat to operate on it. The race for this honor was between Dr. William Shaw and James D. White. Each undertook the construction of canal boats, which were about forty feet in length and eight feet wide. The boat constructed by Dr. Shaw was called "Roy Roy," while that of Mr. White was named the "Alpha." During the month of November, the month when the extension was completed, both boats were launched, Dr. Shaw getting his boat into the water a few hours ahead of Mr. White. The launching of both boats were gala occasions for the community. It was so late in the season, when the launchings occurred that no attempt was made to do much with them until the spring of 1834, when business on the new extension really got under way. Major E. Sankey purchased the "Alpha" and ran it regularly between New Castle and Beaver for about a year. The round trip was frequently accomplished "between sun and sun." That was rapid transit for that day, but today it would be terribly slow. The main business was transporting produce down the canal to Beaver and bringing back merchandise that was needed here.

The perambulating cow was a prize animal valued at $750, according to her owner.

Harrisburg All Dressed Up For Elks' Sessions

State Capital Flag Bedecked As Elks Arrive For Jubilee Convention

EX-GOVERNOR TENER TO SPEAK

Auto Caravan Of Delegates Seems Endless—High Officials To Attend

By GENE MYERS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—Flag-bedecked Harrisburg today played host to the vanguard of hundreds of delegates and visitors to the silver jubilee convention of the Pennsylvania Elks association.

While the first formal reception was scheduled for tonight, scores were on hand for the third annual banquet of 16 past presidents of the organization last night, and a seemingly endless auto caravan of delegates passed under the five huge purple and whtie welcome arches which guarded the main highway entrances to capital city today. The crowds were expected to reach record proportions by Wednesday and Thursday, red-letter days of the convention.

Tener To Speak.

Formal opening exercises of the convention are scheduled for tonight, when former Governor John K. Tener of Charleroi delivers an address at the Meade D. Detweiler monument. Concerts by the "Famous Forty" and Pottsville Elks concert band are to follow, after which the sessions will be begun at a local hotel. Exalted Ruler Herman Earley and Mayor George Hoverter of Harrisburg are to address the short session, which will be followed by a public reception for Grand Exalted Ruler John R. Coen, John F. Nugent, president of the organization, and other officials. A dance is to follow.

Harrisburg entered into holiday spirit of the occasion by flying flags and the purple and white banners of the lodge from every building and erecting 11 huge multi-colored pylons in the business district. The pylons will blaze with lights each night of the convention.

Prominent among the early arrivals for the convention was former Governor Tener, who in addition to being a past grand state president, is a past grand exalted ruler of the national lodge. J. Edgar Masters of Charleroi, who also has headed both state and national lodges, was another guest at last night's banquet.

Amusements Planned.

In addition to business sessions, a golf tournament, trap-shooting, river boat rides, ritualistic competition dances and other forms of entertainment are planned for the delegates.

Many Attend Demonstration At Auditorium

Canning And Drying Of Vegetables Explained By Mrs. Elizabeth Carson

DISTRIBUTE CANS TO THOSE PRESENT

Several hundred people were in attendance at the second canning demonstration, held in the Carnegie Auditorium Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Garden Club of New Castle.

The demonstration was arranged as a part of the gardening project which has been under way this summer among the unemployed of the city. Mrs. Elizabeth Carson, economist of the P. and O. company was in charge and showed how to can corn and tomatoes and how to dry corn and tomatoes in making tomato paste.

Cans will be distributed this afternoon to those who were represented at the demonstration Saturday, over 1,000 jars having been gathered by the Garden Club during the past two weeks to give to those who are canning the surplus from their gardens.

Applications have been received from approximately 150 families who were represented at the demonstration, and will be distributed on a per capita basis. Four cans will be given for each person in the family.

Some Give Money

In addition to the donation of cans, contributions of money to purchase the same were received from the Girls Club, Mrs. E. A. DeLan, Mrs. John H. Lamb, and Mrs. Charles Lysle. A half gross of cans was also donated by the H. G. Preston Company and the New Castle Grocery Company.

Mrs. Carson explained that in canning corn, approximately six dozen ears of corn are needed to make five quarts and the processing requires about three hours. It takes 22 minutes to process tomatoes in canning.

In drying corn, all silk and hulls should be removed thoroughly before the corn is cut from the cob. The corn should then be placed on trays, spread thinly, and placed in an oven heated to 250 degrees, Fahrenheit, The corn should be kept in the over for from four to five hours, and should be stirred up occasionally, so that the drying out process will be uniform. It should then be packed away in pasteboard boxes or in paper bags and stored in a dry place. The corn should be removed occasionally during the winter and spread out, and then repacked.

In drying tomatoes, or making tomato paste, the tomatoes should be cut up and one half sack of salt added to each bushel of tomatoes. These should be boiled until the juice is greatly reduced, after which, the tomatoes should be pressed through a seive. They should then be boiled again until the paste has become about as thick as peanut butter, after which it should be spread out on a board or wooden tray and allowed to dry in the sun, taking care to keep it covered with mosquito netting to protect it from insects. This paste can then be packed away in airtight containers or put in glasses, covered with a little olive oil. This tomato paste is highly concentrated and a little will go a long way in preparing soups, etc.

How To Make Vinegar

Mrs. Carson also explained how vinegar can be made from apple parings. The parings should be placed in a large crock or jar, and covered well with water. A "vinegar mother" which can be procured at any place that sells bulk vinegar, should be placed in the crock and the crock placed in the sun or a warm place for about a month. Then the liquid should be strained off and vinegar mother added. It can then be stored away somewhere and the vinegar which results will be ready for use in about three months.

The members of the Garden Club are well pleased with the assistance they have received in these canning projects. Around three thousand jars were contributed by New Castle residents, which have been distributed to those who are deserving.

They are particularly grateful for the assistance rendered Saturday by Mrs. Carson and the Carnegie Steel Company, through Safety Director Clarence J. Miller. Mr. Miller had a large electric range prepared for them and had seats placed so that all could see clearly.

Police Hear Of Quite A Number Of Accidents On Streets Of City

Albert Frey of 612 East Reynolds street, reported to the police Saturday that he was driving an ice truck of Frey Brothers on West Cherry street, when a girl, Antoinette Quarto of 10 West Cherry street, who was riding on the rear of the truck without his knowledge, fell from the truck into the street. He took her to a physician, where it was found that she had not been seriously injured.

Joe Draca of Akron, O., reported Sunday that he was enroute south on South Liberty street and making a right turn into Montgomery avenue, when the machine of Donald Davenport enroute cast on Montgomery avenue collided with his car. Some damage was done to both machines.

Victor Gussey reported that he was driving east on Long avenue and pulled to the middle of the street to pass another car, when Louis Perritti of 207 South Jefferson street, pulled around his machine and hit and damaged his left front fender.

City Employes Repair Streets

Upper End Of Neshannock Avenue Open; Rural Avenue Has Been Oiled

Rural avenue has been given a coat of oil by the department of street employes and the upper end of Neshannock avenue, which was resurfaced by city employes, is now open for traffic. The resurfacing project is an experiment, according to Harry Moore, street commissioner. If the results expected materialize it is probable that more of that kind of work may be done here.

North Mercer street hill has also been improved. Holes were filled with an asphaltic substance.

ARSON ARREST AT BESSEMER

Police Chief Places Man In Jail On Charge Of Attempted Arson

Herman Ferri, 33, Bessemer, was arrested last night by Police Chief Archie Shoup and when questioned by Shoup and State Highway Patrolman Lawton is alleged to have confessed attempted arson at the home of Dominic Montana, Bessemer. He is in the Lawrence county jail.

According to Lawton, a boarder in the Montana home, which is practically a new dwelling, smelled smoke after he went to bed. An investigation showed hay had been placed around the house then set afire.

Police Chief Shoup was called and noticed the imprint of a shoe in the hay. He placed Ferri under arrest. At first he is said to have denied starting the fire but later confessed, according to Lawton.

There'd be NO NEED FOR A & P

If you could deal direct with the farmer

In the "good old days" what the farmer received for the food he raised, and what the housewife paid for it, were exactly equal.

But as towns and cities grew, it became impossible for the farmer to sell direct to you and methods of handling food became complex. There grew up a clumsy, round-about system with many unnecessary expenses and profits.

The result—The farmer received less but you paid more.

This gave A & P its opportunity—to bring food direct from food producers to you for one small profit. By cutting out numerous wastes A & P is able to charge the housewife less, and pay the farmer a larger share of the retail price.

A & P bridges the gap between the farmer and you.

RAIL AGENTS AT BIG CORN ROAST; DRAWS OVER 200

P. & L. E. Throng Participates In Camp Frolic; Officials Here

With the guest rolls listing a number of high Pittsburgh officials of the company, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Agents' Association members, with their families and close friends, staged their annual corn roast Saturday at Camp Yohe-Campbell, scenic Lake Erie Y. M. C. A. camp near Elliott's Mills, along the Slippery Rock creek.

A diversified outing program, well planned under M. A. Bickett of Monessen, the association's president, kept the throng of more than 200 interested from the time of arrival at the picturesque camp grounds until the departure hour late at night.

Dine at Six O'clock

A dinner was served the host in the dining room at six o'clock, orchestral music being played by P. & L. E. musicians. R. Toussaint was the director.

There was swimming, dancing, 15 tables of bridge and baseball on the program, while a group of the picnickers retired for a trap shooting contest on the camp range. Arrangements clicked to perfection in all events and the time slipped by only too fast so far as the agents and their guests were concerned.

Pittsburghers Here

Among the official guests were Superintendent J. E. Hughes, J. P. Kelley, assistant superintendent; R. P. Forsburg, chief engineer; F. J. Nannah, assistant engineer; R. H. Anthony, freight claim agent; M. R. Hepplewhite, district passenger agent; F. J. Kennedy, auditor, passenger accounts; George Joy of the purchasing department; R. B. Hanna, superintendent's chief clerk; F. C. Smith, supervising agent; Dean L. Brooks, Y. M. C. A. secretary, and L. A. Lee, telegraph superintendent.

A ball game between the agents and the general office group ended 13-3 in favor of the agents. L. T. Moore copped honors for being the most expert quoit tosser. Walter VandeVort won high honors in the trap shooting, killing 36 out of a possible 50 marks. Drumheller finished second to him with a 34 count.

Ladies Win Prizes

In the bridge games of the ladies highest honors went to Miss Nannah; second honors, Mrs. Charles Dindinger, and third place honors to Mrs. L. Sutherland. They were presented attractive prizes.

The picnic folk traveling here by rail were taken to camp in automobiles donated by representatives of freight offices in the local district. A large part of the crowd motored to the camp ground.

Two Youths Are Fatally Injured In Plane Crash

Jacob Zays, 23, And Joe Petrosk, 19, Youthful Fliers Killed At Pittsburgh

PLANE DEVELOPS ENGINE TROUBLE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Aviation's fatality toll in the Pittsburgh district was increased by two today with the deaths of two youths who were killed when their new model plane crashed in a 300-foot dive in Snowden township last night.

The victims were Jacob Zays, 23, a licensed pilot, and Joe Petrosk, 19, a student flier. Zays, who received his license two weeks ago, was at the controls with Petrosk as passenger when the plane took off from the Curtiss-Bettis airport.

As the plane soared over Snowden engine trouble developed. In a desperate attempt to gain lost altitude, the pilot headed the craft sharply upward. Suddenly the motor stopped, the plane sideslipped and crashed on the farm of Joe Cortak.

The left wing was smashed, the plane snapped in two and the motor telescoped into the cabin by the impact. Zays was dead when witnesses reached the wreckage. Petrosk died a short time later in St. Joseph's hospital.

The officials of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association have accepted the quota of 40 delegates from this county to attend the 69th Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association which is to be held in Jaffa Mosque and neighboring churches, Altoona, October 14-15-16. It is thought that more than 40 attend from this county and if such is the case arrangements will be made to increase the quota.

For everybody during the three-day convention each afternoon and each evening in Jaffa Mosque, Broad and 22nd streets, there will be devotional periods in charge of Dr. Peter K. Emmons of Scranton, Music in charge of Rev. A. H. Ackley of Wilkes-Barre and Mr. Bentley D. Ackley of Philadelphia, and addresses by Dr. William Hiran Foulkes of Newark, Dr. Walter B. EFFORT MADE TO FORCE DOOR AT CUDAHY PLANT

Discovery was made Sunday morning by the manager of the local plant of the Cudahy Packing Company on South Mill street, that an attempt had been made during the previous night to force an entrance into the place. Considerable damage was done to the front door of the place, in trying to jimmy it open. Possibly the robbers were frightened away as the jimmy used in the attempt to force the door open was found near the door, when the manager made the discovery.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

For the past two weeks this colyum has been conspicuous by its absence, or had you noticed? The reason being that the blue pencil expert, sometimes known as the editor, has been touring the United States in the rain and during that time the engineer was shunted over. The gentleman is back(the rain has stopped, and the colyum is in.

According to his story it rained from the time he left here until he hit Bunker Hill. The rain in Boston was so thick that it washed away most of the broad A's the folks down there affect, and finally he came west again. There was this benefit about his vacation however, the drouth got broken up into seventeen thousand small pieces.

If you haven't been turned back on the East Washington street bridge yet, you will be. The contractors are now ready for the cartway and sidewalks and cars are detoured around Croton avenue. The smart thing to do if you're going east is to go down Mill street to Lutton or Long and then up.

If you are coming in from the east side, don't wait until you get to Croton before you detour. Take it farther back and save yourself some delays. If your destination is the North Hill shoot across Ray street to Croton and down. If your destination is west, drop down Lutton to Mill.

Traffic jams are going to be common for the next few weeks on account of the detour and you might just as well save yourself the inconvenience.

Never knew a garter snake could swallow a frog until yesterday. They can and do and this particular garter snake was rather hard pressed to get Mister Frog down but did so after distending his neck so far it looked as though he might explode any minute.

DEMENTED MAN WOUNDS THREE NEAR NEW KENSINGTON

(International News Service)

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 24.—Three victims of a demented man and their assailant who ran amuck in a small mining settlement at Renton yesterday were in Citizens General hospital here today, two of them so seriously injured they may die.

The victims of the maniacal fury of John Kiski, 45, recently released from a state insane asylum at Torrence, are Catherine Zummerling, three; George Andrews, 45, and Joe Vomock, 50.

Police arriving at Renton found the "Patch", a mining community in an uproar. Kiski had charged through the streets with an ax, striking down three victims in as many different homes and, after destroying furniture, had attempted to set fire to his own home.

Mrs. Mary Kiski told police her husband first attempted to choke her as she was in the kitchen of their home with a seven-months-old baby in her arms. When he grabbed at the baby, she said, she fled to a neighbor's home.

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 24.—Tony Siciliani, 9 year old lad, who was shot when Marco Demofonti, of No. 2 Mine, ran amuck last month, and killed six persons, was able to leave the hospital yesterday and return to his home.

For a time it was feared that the injuries would cause the lad's death.

Butler Girl Saves Two From Drowning

BUTLER, Aug. 24—Miss Alice McCann of Butler and Miss Ruth Mattingly of Pittsburgh were rescued from drowning in the waters of Lake Erie by Miss Ethel Mack of Butler Thursday afternoon. The girls, who are camping along with other Butler friends at the mouth of Elk creek, Girard, Pa., had gone out to swim in the lake when suddenly both girls stepped into a deep hole.

When Miss Mack reached the girls both were nearly dead. For over an hour campers and others who quickley gathered worked with the girls before they were able to return to their camp.

ALL EMPLOYES OF FORD PLANT TO BE GARDENERS

People Of Country Must Learn To Help Themselves Says Ford

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Aug. 24 Family men employed by the Ford Motor company there must either become home gardeners or forfeit their positions.

This edict was promulgated Saturday by Ford during an inspection trip, as a measure to alleviate temporary business depression.

"Next year," said Ford, "every man with a family who is employed at the plant, will be required to have a garden of sufficient size to supply his family with at least a part of its winters' vegetables, or he will find himself out of a job."

Workers who have no available space will be supplied with land by the company, he said.

Ford said the company would provide expert advice on gardening for those employes not familiar with the hoe and weed puller. An investigation will be started soon, he said, to determine which employes needed instruction.

"When the people of our country learn to help themselves they will be benefited far greater than they would be by unemployment insurance, as is being suggested in congress to avoid the dole system," he said. "If our agricultural plans are adopted throughout the country, such a thing as the dole system need never be thought of."

He said he believed if the plan proved successful here, other companies would follow his lead.

Unique Service Held On Square

Salvation Army Service Attracts Several Hundred On Saturday Night

One of the most unique services held in New Castle was the Salvation Army open air service on the diamond on Saturday night. Over 300 people attended the service. Upon the invitation of his audience Ensign V. Thomsen, assisted by Rev. H. Johnson and A. Schaffer and several of the Army members, gave an invitation and a man volunteered to come forward to the drumhead. He told the ensign afterwards that he was from Farrell, was travelling over the country looking for work. He was despondent and discouraged and was listening to the service. The cheerful songs and bright testimonies of those speaking impressed him so much.

He was cared for by Ensign Thomsen afterwards. Duets were sung by Ensign and Mrs. V. Thomsen, solos by Mrs. C. Williams and addresses by Mr. Schaffer and H. Johnson.

Colored Service Men Hold Meeting

Enthusiastic Meeting Is Held In The City Council Chamber

One of the most enthusiastic and largest meeting of colored ex-service men ever held in the city was an event of Friday night in the city council chamber. More than fifty former service men of the world war were present.

Frank Bailey, commander of Colonel Charles Young Post No. 538, American Legion presided. A number of addresses were made and plans were made to bring the membership to at least 150 by October 1.

There will be another meeting next Thursday evening at the city council chamber, when there will be something of real interest to every former ex-service man of the colored race, brought up.

Sewer Question Being Discussed

White Advises City To Pay For Sewer But Not To Adopt It

J. Clyde Gilfillan and John Abel today met with council in formal session at the city building but refused to sign an agreement, prepared by Solicitor White relative to construction of a sewer from Wilmington avenue, through their properties to the east end of their lots. Council recessed until this afternoon when the problem will be discussed further.

Gilfillan took the attitude that due to the opening and grading of Leasure and Garfield avenues water had been thrown on their lots.

White's proposed agreement, if adopted would have resulted in Gilfillan and Abel building a sewer and the city paying for it.

However, White advised council not to agree to make the sewer a part of the city sewer system, stating that to do so would result in the city being forced to maintain it.

This did not satisfy Attorney Gilfillan.

Shortly after noon council ordered a recess and the conference will be resumed this afternoon.

NOWADAYS you read and hear every kind of thing about cigarettes. But when you try to square some of it with your own common-sense and experience, a lot of it just doesn't "square"!

What smokers want to know about a cigarette is "How good is it?"

And when it comes to that, cigarettes are just as good and just as pure as the materials from which they're made.

In making Chesterfield, we use only riper, milder, sweeter-tasting tobaccos—the best that money can buy—and pure cigarette paper—the purest that can be made. Our chemists rigidly test for cleanliness and purity all materials used in the manufacture of Chesterfield. In our factories even the air is washed, and changed every 4½ minutes.

Everything that goes into Chesterfield is the best that money can buy or that science knows about.

"Good . . . they've got to be good," we say about CHESTERFIELD—and we mean it! And that's something you can square with everything you've ever read, or heard—or know—about this good cigarette!

Final Wickersham Commission Report Handed To Hoover

"Crime And Foreign Born" Is Subject Of Final Report Filed Today

Two Years Of Exhaustive Study By Picked Commission Comes To End

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—George W. Wickersham's "Three Foot Shelf on Crime" was complete today with the issuance of the 14th and final report on law observance and law enforcement. Two years of effort was entailed in the finished product. The last of the posthumous reports --the Wickersham commission went out of existence on June 30--dealt with "crime and foreign born.

As a result of exhaustive inquiry into this subject, the body reported to President Hoover "we are now in a position definitely to say" that the "foreign born commit considerably fewer crimes than the native born," despite popular opinion to the contrary. Since the commission, under chairmanship of Taft's attorney general, first startled the country with a report bearing the "unanimous" conclusion that prohibition was enforceable and should be given further trial, but which embodied individual opinions showing a majority of the eleven members thought the law should be modified, it has delved into every phase of criminal procedure. Its bulk brochures thereon totalled 4,023 pages, or approximately 1,600,000 words--enough to make up approximately 25 novels of popular length.

Findings are Startling

Its finding have been startling. Politics have been found prevailing in police forces, prosecuting offices and the courts. Brutal and inhuman practices are being employed against men running afoul the law. Penal institutions are antiquated and inconducive to reform. The government cannot cope with the problem of juvenile delinquency and it should be turned over in its entirety to the states. Deportation methods savoring of "the dark ages" are being employed against aliens. The cost of crime is incalculable, but known figures run over a billion dollars annually. These were the highlights of the conclusions reached, and sweeping reforms in proceedure were recommended.

In today's final report, the commission took sharp issue with the oft-stressed conclusion the foreign born are largely responsible for America's crime wave although it refused to affirm or deny their American-born children were the ring leaders. On the latter score, it found conflicting and inadequate evidence and recommended a further study of the problem. So far as the old folk were concerned, though, the investigating body found them far more amenable to American laws than native whites and negroes.

Attacks Deportation

The deportation law was attacked in so far as it permitted return of the alien "without time limit for causes arising after entry."

Anti-social conditions. "For which our American communities are responsible, in most cases, made criminals, anarchists or prostitutes of these deportees, it was found, and the question was asked "whether other nations."

"Does not the responsibility belong to this country rather than to his early home?" queried the commission.

Serious Damage In Havana Today As Bombs Explode

No Casualties Reported; Communists Rather Than Rebels Are Blamed

(International News Service)

HAVANA, Aug. 24.—Two more bombs shook Havana's downtown district today, causing serious damage but no casualties.

Government officials said the bombs were placed by communists rather than rebels and ordered an intensive search for infernal machines. At Santiago De Cuba, they unearthed a bomb factory and confiscated 25 twelve-pound bombs and eighty pounds of dynamite after killing two men and placing sixteen under arrest.

Today's explosiones in Havana took place at the corner of Pena Pobre and Havana streets and at the corner of Progresso and Havana.

The government announced that a reward of $5,000 would be paid to any one giving information leading to the arrest of the bombers.

Except for the bombings and the raid at Santiago, Cuba was generally quiet today, the whole country apparently considering that the rebellion had definitely been quelled.

Police Killed; Fireman Carries On

Heroic cooperation to the greatest degree was manifest between the police and fire departments of New York when two youthful bandits killed two officers and were finally overtaken and slain after a toll of six lives had been taken. Policeman Walter J. Webb (left), was killed trying to protect a payroll from the bandit pair; Policeman Edwin Churchill (right), was killed trying to halt the gunman's mad dash for liberty, and Fireman Vincent Hyde (center) picked up the gun which dropped from Churchill's lifeless hand to carry on the chase through Gotham streets.

Probe Crash That Hurt Six

The disastrous wreck of the Transcontinental and Western Air Express tri-motored monoplane at Pittsburgh which injured four passengers and two pilots when it crashed on a wet field. The plane, bound from Chicago to New York, was piloted by A. D. Smith, who decided to land at Pittsburgh due to threatening weather farther East. Smith, however, was unable to check his landing speed on the water-soaked field and the crash resulted. An investigation of the mishap is underway.

Pennsy Engineers Are Ordered To Dim Lights When Deer Is Sighted

Move Started To Eliminate Wholesale Killing Of Deer In Kane Region

Charles Coleman, Veteran Engineer Suggests Plan Of Dimming Head-Lights

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Aug. 24—A move to avert slaughter of deer by railroad trains operating through this section was started today when Pennsylvania railroad engineers were issued orders to dim their lights for an instant when deer appear in danger.

A Renovo, Pa. engineer, Charles Coleman, gets credit for evolving the plan and J. A. Laub, publicity agent of the Renovo division and sportsman, is the man who seized on the humanitarian side of the comparatively simple gesture. Laub learned that the Renovo division engineer had not killed a deer in the 36 years he has been piloting a locomotive, and asked him the reason for it when other engineers of this district had reported killing as high as forty deer in a season.

Slaughter Unnecessary

"Slaughter of deer by trains running through this section is really unnecessary, despite the great number of the animals," Coleman declared. "When a deer comes within range of my headlight and appears fascinated by the beam, I immediately switch off the light. When I turn it on again a moment later the deer is gone."

Seldom is a deer killed by a locomotive in the daytime, but at night when the engines' great lights seem to lure them into the path of the onrushing steel giants, hundreds of the animals die on the rails. One engineer alone, on the low grade division of the Pennsylvania, from Driftwood to Red Bank, reported that his locomotive killed forty deer last year.

Many Deer Killed

It is Coleman's belief that the enchanting effect of the light alone is responsible for so many deer perishing on railroad tracks. When the light is turned out for an instant the spell is broken and the deer scampers to safety.

Mr. Coleman, who pilots passenger trains between Kane and Renovo, is a great lover of outdoor life. He claims to know where almost every herd of deer is located along his run, and is disappointed if he does not get a glimpse of at least a few of them each day.

It is the opinion of railroad men that Coleman's plan can be applied to highways as well as railroads. However, darkening of an automobile's lights entails considerably more risk than the switching off of a locomotive's headlight, and use of the suggestion hinges more or less on the judgment of the driver.

Drowning Occurrs At Harmony Jct.

ZELIENOPLE, Aug. 24.—The reservoir at Harmony Junction claimed a victim Saturday, when Gerald Nally, aged 21 of Pittsburgh, who was picinicking with a number of other friends, died while swimming there.

The young man came to near Harmony Junction, to the McGill farm with a number of friends on a truck to spend the day. The picnickers were spending the day with a number of friends who are camping on the McGill farm, near the reservoir. They enjoyed a dinner at camp, a corn and wiener roast and a short time later went to the reservoir to swim. The young man, with a number of others swam across the reservoir, and was coming back, when he went down. Friends dived for him, and made an attempt to get a hold of him, but failed when others from the shore who were watching jumped in and made an effort to save the young man. He was in the water about twenty five minutes when one of the others who had gone in the water with him caught him and brought him ashore. Every effort was made to save him, pulmotors and every other device being used to revive him, but with no avail. The men and his friends worked for more than two hours. Local physicians were called.

The young man was a friend of the McGill family, and visited there frequently. It is thought that he was seized with indigestion, when he went to the bottom of the reservoir, having gone in the water too soon after eating a heavy meal at the camp.

A small girl was drowned about three weeks ago there also, while in wading and another child narrowly escaped at that timt.

The outing, which will begin at two p. m., and end at nine p. m., is the first one held in this community in a long period. Special pains have been taken to make it one of the most enjoyable. Ellport Schools Open On Sept. 8

Expect Enrollment Of 350 At Boro Schools During Fall Term

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 24.—The Ellport schools will open on September 8 with an expected enrollment of 350 pupils, under the principalship of Mrs. Leyda Richael and seven teachers, all of whom taught last term with the exception of one, Miss Elvena Coryea of New Castle, who will teach the fourth grade.

The enrollment will be increased this year with the pupils of part of Wayne township in Burnstown who formerly attended the Ellwood City school at Ewing Park. This will prove a source of revenue to the Ellport borough, whose school directors have been embarrassed by the lack of funds adequate to take care of the schools of the borough, on account of the large high school enrollment and the increased cost of tuition in the Ellwood City high school.

Scarazzos Top Brent Nine, 5-1

Scarazzos Again Deadlocked With Shenango Pottery For First Place

By virtue of its 5-1 victory over the Brent aggregation on Saturday afternoon at Centennial field, the Scarazzo club is again deadlocked with the Shenango Pottery nine for first place in the Lawrence county league. A big crowd was on hand to watch this tilt.

Brent secured an early lead of one run which it maintained for three innings. The Scarazzos scored two runs on one hit and an error in the third. From then until the end of the contest the Scarazzos were never threatened.

Picarro, Earl and Genock featured at the bat for the winners while Grundy and McClymonds were the best stickers for the Brent nine. Three double plays featured the contest. The game that will determine the winner of the second half race of the county league will probably be enacted next week when the Scarazzos and Shenango Pottery team battle.

Entering a plea of nolle contendere to two charges of larency, George Miller of Youngstown, O., was placed upon probation for two years today by Judges R. Lawrence Hildebrand and James A. Chambers sitting in Court Room Number one.

Miller's reason for the two thefts which he admitted were that he needed money for his family. He said that he had gone to a garage here in the city and negotiated for the sale of a radio. Taking the radio he left the city and sold it to a man in Youngstown for $30.00.

Later he went to a store here and slipped out with a bag of golf clubs which he sold for $25.00 His attorneys argued that he had no criminal record and asked for leniency. In addition to his parole he must pay the costs of the case and make restitution in the amount of $40.00 in each case. It is understood that his wife has already raised the money for restitution.

Frances Shute was fined $25.00 and costs upon a charge of fornication.

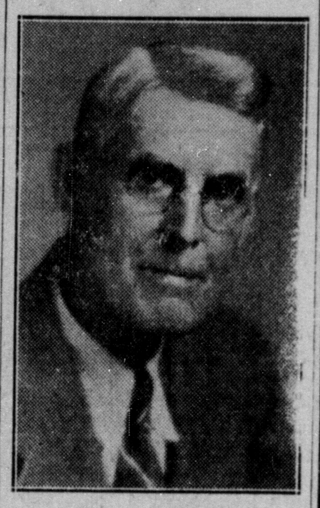
Gardner Candidate For City Council

Fourth Ward Man Announces His Candidacy For Republican Primaries



JOHN M. GARDNER

In announcing my candidacy for City Council, I wish to express the conviction that, despite all statements to the contrary, taxes can, and must be, reduced. The issue lies not in the possibility of cutting taxes, but in the key-question of what method may be most successfully employed.

There are useless departments which could be closed, other departments which could, through amalgamation, be brought to operate more efficiently. A similar elimination and adjustment among city employees, a replacement of two incompetent men by one fitted for his position, could likewise be made. Most important of all, a general revision of salaries in consideration of depression values would bring about no small decrease in the city's yearly budget.

Briefly summarized, the same thought and care which the business concern, the business man, and the working man find necessary to practice constantly, must be given to city expenditures.

In connection with these chances, the resident of New Castle should be given employment in preference to the non-resident. No position, should be filled by a person not a taxpayer in the city.

It is impossible for citizens to continue to pay the exorbitant taxes now being levied. Most of our workmen are on short-time wages; and several thousand others have no employment whatever. Up to now, many people have met their taxes through loans on their property, their life insurance, and their stocks, or through loans from personal finance companies; but even these reserves are now exhausted. The possession of real estate is a detriment; for the income on it has shrunken on an average of fifty percent, and the taxes have been increased three hundred percent in the last ten years.

My candidacy has been endorsed by the Taxpayers' League, and the aims and objects of the League meet with by whole hearted approval. If nominated and elected, I shall do my best to see that the city government is conducted in the interests of the taxpayer, and that city taxes be reduced wherever possible.

JOHN M. GARDNER.

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING IS IN THE ADVERTISING SECTION

WHEN A WOMAN is called "gifted" at cooking, you'll probably find that she owes a good deal to her reading of advertisements.

For it's through the advertisements that the clever housewife discovers the tested—and trusted—food products which assure the success of her dishes. . And it's through the advertisements that she discovers the many convenient and dependable appliances which make her kitchen tasks so much more simple.

She has found that advertised products will never disappoint her. She can always count upon them for unvarying quality, no matter when or where she buys them.

In fact, the wise hostess is always willing to stake her reputation on the trade-marked advertised product. For a responsible manufacturer has staked his name upon that product first!

Read the advertisements. They are full of vital, dependable buying news.

She's Going to Swim Channel Again

SWIMMING CHANNEL IN 1926 — A YOUNG STUDENT

Who doesn't remember that day in August, 1926, when Gertrude Ederle conquered the English Channel—the first woman to accomplish that feat? And when she came back to receive the acclaim of her country—what a celebration and outpouring of pride in Trudie! Miss Ederle, now teaching swimming in a New York pool, has the ambition to swim the treacherous channel again, this time from England to France. If her ambition is realized, she will have conquered it both ways. Trudie is shown (upper right) enjoying a swing, teaching her niece to swim (lower right), swimming the channel in 1926 (lower left), and Miss Ederle, herself (upper left). Go to it, Trudie, good luck!

Helen Wills Moody Is Tennis Queen

America's Woman's Tennis Crown Reposes On Head Of Helen Wills Moody

RANKING STARS FAIL TO IMPRESS

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—America's women's tennis crown reposes once again where it belongs—on the shapely head of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, undisputed queen of the world of racquets. And judging by the doings at Forest Hills during the past week, the crowning of Queen Helen has ushered in another era of Moody supremacy, another stretch of years during which the great champion will again rule the feminine tennis world with on iron hand. Certainly nothing Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall showed against the great Moody in yesterday's final, when she was crushed under 6-4, 6-1 scores, points to the contrary. Nor anything that Betty Nuthall, or Helen Jacobs, or any oif the other British or American stars exhibited during the past seven days, either.

Undisputed Champ

The former Helen Wills is the undisputed Queen of Tennis. There can be no gainsaying that fact. And the rest of the women stars aren't even princesses. They rank so far beneath the great champion that the best that can be said for them is that they are ladies in waiting, ladies waiting for the queen to abdicate her throne.

There's nothing they can even do to hasten the downfalls of the great Moody. Joan Ridley, one of England's best: Dorothy Weisel, No. 3 player of America: Phyllis Hudford, second ranking player of England, and Mrs. Whittingstall, victor over John Bull's No. 1 start and America's No. 2 player, couldn't take a set from Queen Helen among them.

BESSEMER WANTS GAME

The Bessemer Sluggers would like to play the Soda Jerkers of New Castle tonight at 6:30 o'clock at the Bessemer field. The Soda Jerkers are asked to call the Bessemer manager at 8102-R31 and ask for Joe.

New Wilmington Ties South Side

Tennis Match Ends 2-2; Ray Must Extended To Win In Three Sets

One of the best tennis matches of the season was witnessed on Saturday afternoon on the South Side Board of Trade courts when the New Wilmington Tennis club battled the South Side Board of Trade team to a 2-2 tie.

The Ray Must-R. Sowash setto proved the best of the afternoon. After taking the first set 6-3 Must lost the second by a 4-6 count. In the third and final set Must of the Trade team was extended to win by a 7-5 count. This contest had the big crowd on its heels throughout.

In the second set W. McGill of the College Town defeated Harold Harris of the South Side team. McGill lost the first set, 8-10. He came back strong winning the next two sets by 6-1 and 7-5 scores. Mike Kulich of the South Side team beat G. Sowash in straight sets, 8-6 and 6-3. The final match proved a win for the New Wilmington team. Mansell representing the New Wilmington club won over Chester Rowe by 7-5, 2-6 and 6-3 scores.

No double matches were played. As a result the South Side Board of Trade tennis team is still undefeated. It was the second time a team has tied the South Siders.

Rose Avenue Trims Drakes

The Rose avenue mushball team defeated the Drake A. C. in a game played on Friday night on the Rose avenue field. The score was 11-9.

Recently the Rose avenue team won four games. Two victories were at the expense of the Potters nine 11-6 and 9-5, while the others were wins over the West Side Olympics 9-4 and 11-2. Rose avenue will play the Cunningham A. C. this evening. On Wednesday the Drake A. C. will again oppose the Rose avenue team with the Oak A. C. playing Thursday, the Mitchell A. C. on Friday and on Saturday the Rose avenue soft ball artists will journey to Ellwood City for a game.

Games with the Rose avenue team can be secured by calling 2616 and asking for Joe.

Grove's Streak Finally Broken

St. Louis Browns With Coffman Pitching Three-Hit Game Stop Grove

BABE RUTH HITS HOMER NUMBER 36

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Robert Moses Grove had no excuse today.

Acknowledged the greatest pitcher in both the American and National leagues, Grove met his master—at least for a day—in Dick Coffman of the St. Louis Browns, who snatched a 1 to 0 game from the Athletics. The A's horse-collaring was the first in 1931.

The St. Louis win snapped Grove's winning stream at 16 straight games, three short of the long string mark for consecutive victories held by Rube Marquard.

Strangely enough, the Athletics' hitters got going in the night cap while the old husk, Waite Hoyt, was serving vacuum ball and beat the Browns 10 to 0.

The Cards routed Boston 16 to 1 and then Paul Dearringer beat Ed Brandt 1 to 0 in a mound scrap that went 11 beautiful innings.

The Pittsburgh Pirates handed the Robins a couple of ball games. Brooklyn won two contests by 5 to 4 scores. And both were decided on Pirate errors in the ninth inning. Shaute was the hurler in the opener and Quinn got the credit in the vesper, relieving Dazzy Vance. O'Doul's homer helped in the finale.

Ruth Hits Homer.

The biggest White Sox crowd since 1927, totaling more than 50,000 fans, saw their pale hose warriors drop twice before the New York Yankees 10 to 4 and 9 to 1. Ruth poled homer No. 36 in the opener. Chapman, the big larceny gent from New York, hit a homer and stole three bases.

Falk, Myatt and Montague singled in the ninth and won 4 to 3 for Cleveland over the Boston Ruddy Sox. Sergeant Connally, the former third string pitcher of the Chicago Sox, was the winning hurler.

Detroit and Washington were tied up in the seventh inning, when up stepped no other than Joe Cronin to hang the old apple outside the fence. The circuit blast gave the Senators just what they needed—a 6 to 5 advantage. Bob Burke, the recent no-hit hurler of Washington, blew up in the fifth and was driven to the sprinklers.

Just as if he had heard no talk of over-production a silly apple tree up in Medford, Oregon., starts blooming for the second time this year. — THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE.

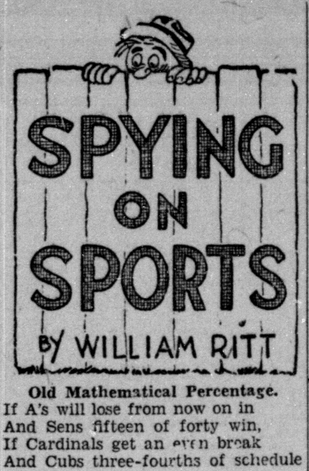
Only Rooter Now

Marion Carstairs, British motorboat racer, who made two attempts to lift the International Speedboat Trophy, is shown arriving at New York from England to witness the 1931 races, to be held on the Detroit River. Miss Carstairs will be only a rooter this year, concentrating her efforts on cheering "Miss England II," which will be piloted by Kaye Don against Gar Wood's "Miss America."



Old Mathematical Percentage.

If A's will lose from now on in
And Sens fifteen of forty win,
If Cardinals get an even break
And Cubs three-fourths of schedule take,
If Grove gets sick, if Simmons ails
If Frisch goes stale, if Bill Haines fails—
Thus goes the dope—but don't you bet!
No "If" has stopped a champ team yet!

Though the world series is well over a month off the great leads fashioned and kept intact by the two champion clubs has caused speculation as to its outcome to already become a topic freely discussed.

The series is too many furlongs away in the future to try to figure the winner of the 1931 fall classic. Lots of things can happen between then and now. However, there is one point on which it is pretty safe to do a little predicting.

Here it is: The 1931 world series should be packed with swell pitching and studded with close, fiercely fought games.

With the memory of those October shambles in which the Yankees participated still fresh in mind a 1 to 0, 2 to 1 sort of series would be a refreshing novelty. And that seems to be just about what the baseball doctor has ordered for us this time.

When the Yanks were great, world series diamonds were strewn with dead and dying pitching reputations and the outfield fences looked like devastated France, all but demolished by the thundering barrages of the Yankee big guns.

In '29 when the A's took over the American league throne the shooting wasn't so continuously heavy, but that 10-8 explosion which destroyed Cub hopes turned a well regulated series into another Yankee-like massacre.

This year things look decidedly different. For two reasons:

1. The two probable contenders, A's and Cards, have the best pitching staffs in the big leagues.

2. The hitting of the two clubs is nothing to rave about.

The Cards are hitting around the lower 290's while the A's are below that mark. As teams rarely bat in the series with the vigor they display during the season the current marks of the A's and Cards indicate runs may be rarities in October.

Couple light hitting with the superb pitching of which both teams have abundance, and the excellent fielding of which both outfits are capable, and the answer is a light scoring, tight pitching series.

Brooklyn Team Hitting Stride

Dodgers Play Better Ball Now That National League Flag Chase Is Over

STRAIN IS OVER FOR THIS YEAR

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Battles for second place in both major leagues, which waxed hotter during the past week, have stimulated the flagging interest of baseball fans as the Athletics and Cardinals coast down the stretch to another world series.

The rejuvenation of the Brooklyn Robins, now in the throes of one of their characteristic form reversals, is the current sensation of the National League. In grave danger of flopping back into the second division four or five days ago, the fantastic flock of Flatbush has won six straight games and is now yapping at the heels of the Cubs and Giants in a three-cornered battle for second place.

Two reasons may be advanced for the reformation of Uncle Wilbert Robinson's nephews. One is that a few days ago the president of the club threatened to trade every man jack on the roster except Bissonette this winter and also make drastic salary cuts.

Fall To Pieces.

Another theory is that the Robins are at last playing pennant-winning ball because they realize they have no hope of winning the pennant. The strain of spending their world series money in advance always has been the ruination of the Brooklyn boys. Every year they fall to pieces with as much regularity as the plush-covered easy chair in a furnished room.

But now that the strain of worrying about the pennant is over, they are settling down and playing the kind of ball they figured to play all season.

The Robins this morning were only two games behind the Cubs, who in turn trail the Giants by three games. When Chicago and New York get together playing successive doubleheaders today, tomorrow and Wednesday, a series that may decide the fight for second place, Brooklyn will have improved its position no matter how the series turns out.

Illinois hunters and fisherman paid over a million for licenses in the past two years, but it is not recorded that they bagged their money's worth. — The ST. LOUIS TIMES.

August 6, 1931.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Water and Power Resources Board, Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, until one o'clock P. M. Eastern Standard Time (two o'clock P. M. Eastern Daylight Savings Time), September 1, 1931, for the construction of the Pymatuning Dam and appurtenances across the Shenango river Valley about a mile and a half above Jamestown, in West Shenango and South Shenango Townships, Crawford County, Pennsylvania.

The dam will be an earth embankment about 2400 feet long and 50 feet in maximum height, and will include the following approximate quantities:

370,000 cubic yards embankment
180,000 cubic yards excavation
5,000 cubic yards concrete
900 tons steel sheet piling
9,000 cubic yards riprap
4,000 cubic yards stone paving

Proposals must be on the blank forms furnished by the Board and each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for not less than 5 per cent of the aggregate amount of the bid, figured on the basis of the estimated quantities and the unit prices bid, such check to be drawn to the order of the Chairman of the Water and Power Resources Board as a guarantee that the bidder, if awarded the contract, will within ten days after the award, execute the contract, and furnish surety bond for the faithful performance of the contract, in the sum of 50% of the contract price, and an additional bond, in the sum of 50% of the contract price, for the prompt payment for all material furnished and labor supplied or performed in the prosecution of the work whether or not the material or labor enter into and become component parts of the structures; said contract and bonds to be on the standard forms prescribed by the Board. Such surety bonds shall be acceptable to the Chairman of the Board and each bond shall have as surety a surety company authorized to transact business in this Commonwealth, or two individual sureties approved by the Department of Justice.

If any bidder, to whom an award has been made, shall fail to execute the contract or to furnish satisfactory bond within the time hereinbefore specified, or as extended by the Board; the award shall thereupon become void, in which case the proceeds of the certified check shall become the property of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the contract may be awarded to the next lowest or best bidder; and such next lowest or best bidder shall thereupon assume the contract as if he were the party to whom the award was first made.

Each bidder must, in his proposal, present satisfactory evidence that he has been engaged in constructing works of the general character covered by his proposal, and that he is fully prepared, and has the necessary capital, to begin the work promptly, and to conduct it as required by the contract and specifications. Proposals not containing such evidence will not be recognized as bids.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids, to waive technical defects and to accept or reject any part of any bid, if in the judgment of the Board, the best interests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall require such action

Drawings, specifications, proposal blanks, and other information may be obtained on application to the Chief Engineer, Water and Power Resources Board, Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. A charge of $5.00 a set is made for contract drawings and specification. Drawings, specifications and samples of borings may be examined at the Field Office of the Board near the site of the Dam.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Market Is Unsettled At Opening Of Week

(International News Service)

New York, Aug. 24.—Stocks were unsettled at the beginning of the new week by the British cabinet upheaval and the absence of encouraging news with respect to home industrial improvement. The downward movement which started last Thursday and continued to the end of the week was resumed at today's opening, with fractional losses in United States Steel, American Can, General Motors and other favorites, but there was no heavy dumping of stocks and the first half-hour's volume was only 200,000 shares. Political troubles in Great Britain were foreseen and forecasted, and therefore no great surprise to Wall street.

There was little evidence of a rally in the second hour and at that time United States Steel showed a loss of 1¾ at 85¾, while American Tel and Tel was down 2½ at 168½; Westinghouse down a point at 61⅝; J. I. Case down 1¼ at 59⅛; New York Central down 1⅜ at 67½; Union Pacific down a point at 140.

The Commodity markets made a better showing than the stock and bond markets, Cotton advancing more than a dollar a bale and grain prices up fractionally. German Government 5½s and German Republic 7s led the downswing in European issues and sold down about 2 points. Though Railroad bonds were unable to rally, selling in the well known issues was comparatively small.

A sharp week-end rise in Crude Oil and Gasoline in some sections of the country was reflected in the firming up of Standard and Independent Oil shares. Socony-Vacuum was in good call around 19½ and Standard of California at 40½. General Motors sold under 35¼ for the first time in two months on rumors of a possible reduction in the dividend to a $2.50 basis, and was again the weak spot in the Automobile group. "Store" stocks were active and firm.

Rotarians Hear Of Conference

Report Of Recent District Conference Is Made At Noon-Hour Session

A report of the recent district conference of Rotary clubs held in Grove City was conveyed today in the talk given before the New Castle Rotarians by their president, Louis B. Round. The conference was also attended by Secretary Carl E. Paisley.

Round also, in his capacity as chairman of the Troop F civilian sponsoring committee, reported the achievements of the local national guardsmen during their training period at Mt. Gretna, ended last Friday.

He praised the New Castle outfit, declaring that it consists of "a clean bunch of fellows who acted orderly at all times." He said they rated high in every field problem and other details, coming within a close range of being the top notch troop on the grounds.

On the motion of Attorney W. J. Caldwell, Rotary's representative on the sponsoring committee, the Troop F's officers and entire personnel will be guests of the Rotarians at some sort of a dinner affair within a very short time.

Chicago's 'Jungle-on-the-Loop'

Here's one of the habitats of that curious American creature, the Genus Hobo. Yes. It is a hobo "Jungle" and it is situated right in the great city of Chicago, on the very edge of its famous Loop. Fashioned from any scrap material available, these shacks provide shelter for nearly 100 tramps, whose means of sustenance remains a mystery. Inset is Joe Lorraine, one of the denizens of the "Jungle," enjoying a feed of corn off the cob.

These six men, members of the group of prominent leaders in the nation's business, industrial and finance spheres named by President Hoover to work toward unemployment relief this Winter, will have as their chairman Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The remaining five, Bernard Baruch, William Green, Silas Strawn, Julius Rosenwald and Newton D. Baker, are all well-known authorities in their lines of endeavor, and will assist Mr. Gifford with relief measures.

German Aviators Unheard From In New York Flight

Anxiety Grows In Germany As Atlantic Fliers Are Not Heard From

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—Anxiety for the safety of Willy Rody and Christian Johanssen, German aviators, and their passenger who left Tempelholf Tirdrome Saturday for a flight to New York, grew today as they were still unreported.

Before their departure, Rody said that they would make the flight to New York via Lisbon and the Azores, but later it was learned that they had also thought of flying to New York, via the Northern route.

No report had been received early today from them along either route.

The trio was flying in a three-year-old plane once owned by Charles A. Levine, New York flyer. The passenger was a Portuguese named DaCosta Veiga.

NAVY TO PROTECT AMERICANS CAUGHT IN CHINESE FLOOD

caring for the hundreds of thousands of refugees who have poured into Hankow, taxing the limited accommodations and supplies of that river city to the limit.

Efforts to evacuate residents from the flooded areas were hampered by the fact that those coolies fortunate enough to possess boats were extorting twenty-eight times normal fares to carry passengers to safety.

Cholera and typhoid outbreaks were reported increasing, with a scarcity of medicines threatening widespread pestilence.

The U. S. S. Palos is scheduled to leave for Hankow on September 1, the Monocacy following on September 3. Each will be loaded to capacity with supplies of food and medicine and whatever else the flood commission requires.

The U. S. S. Tutuila is leaving tomorrow for Hankow with food and medicines. The gunboats Luzon, Panay Oahu and Guam are standing by at Hankow, assuring the safety and sustainence of American residents and prepared to cooperate with the Chinese authorities in bringing some measures of relief to the hard-hit native population.

Clark Jury On Coast Fails To Get Decision

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Nearly three days of arguments convinced the jurors they would never agree on the guilt of David H. Clark, charged with killing Hubert Spencer, editor, and Charles Crawford, politician, so the jury was discharged yesterday but Joseph Ford, prosecutor, declared today that the case would be re-tried. He termed the vote of 11 jurors for acquittal "ridiculous."

William Weller, the juror favoring conviction, said: "I wouldn't have changed in ten years." Judd Wilson, another juror, became alarmed at the heat of the discussion and removed the cartridges in the many guns among the exhibits.

Clark's plea was self-defense. He took the disagreement calmly but with disappointment.

To Rest Among Nation's Heroes

After nearly 80 years the honor of being laid to rest among other national heroes in Arlington Cemetery is accorded to the remains of Captain John Gwinn, once commander of America's most famous frigate, the U. S. S. Constitution, better known as "Old Ironsides." Photo shows the coffin containing the dust of the noted skipper being borne from Glenwood Cemetery, at Philadelphia, Pa., for removal to Washington where it will be reinterred in Arlington National Cemetery. Capt. Gwinn assumed command of Old Ironsides in 1848, and died five years later in Italy.

Pleased With Sky Nursery

Traveling in the first flying nursery, complete with toys and playthings for the children, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund T. Price, of San Diego, Calif., are shown as they arrived at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., after a trip across the continent. The plane was transformed into a sky nursery by the removal of several seats and the installation of children's playthings. Left to right, the youngsters are: Charles, 7; Joan, 4, and Mitzi, 9.

Where Bloody Trail Ended

The get-away car in one of the worst outbreaks of crime in New York is pictured at the end of its wild ride with the body of its driver stretched out beside it. Two 19-year-old bandits, who used the cab to try and escape police pursuers after they had shot down two officers in cold blood who tried to stop them, were killed in the taxi, as was the driver, by police bullets. Altogether six persons—two policemen, two bandits, and a baby girl and the taxi driver—lost their lives in the gunplay.

Probe Mystery In Disappearance Of Wealthy Jap

Two Unidentified Girls Are Included As Witnesses In Affair

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Two unidentified girls and Mrs. Mary Reisner, showgirl sweetheart of Hisashi Fujimura who disappeared mysteriously from the S. S. Belgenland on Aug. 14, were to testify before the Federal grand jury here today in an attempt to solve the wealthy Japanese's vanishment.

Juichi Kono, Fujimura's associate in his $1,000,000 silk concern will also be questioned about the missing man's financial status.

Authorities were endeavoring to locate a scar-faced lawyer who was seen with Mrs. Reisner as late as 4 a. m. on the morning that the wealthy importer disappeared from the ship's deck.

Fujimura's bank account showed that between March 1 when he first met Mrs. Reisner, and Aug. 8 withdrawals of $335,412 were made, leaving a few dollars on deposit when he boarded the Belgenland for the fatal cruise. During this time, the importer is known to have purchased a $35,000 love nest in Rye, N. Y., and to have been an elaborate gambler and spender along Broadway.

Walter E. Godfrey, attorney for Mrs. Reisner, announced that his client is convinced the silk importer is safe either in New York or enroute to his old home in Japan, which he left 10 years ago. He also contends that $24,000 was the extent of Fujimura's gifts to the show girl.

While authorities continue to investigate the baffling mystery, coast guard cutters are patrolling the shores off Atlantic Highlands where fishermen reported seeing the lower part of a man's body.

But when buses take all the business, will it be necessary to pension the railroads to haul empties?
